John S. Sayward,—Editor

SATURDAY, MAY 15, 1847

☞ Occasionally a case of sudden death, of the young and beautiful, heart crushed in the opening bud of life—stricken down by a too ardent temperament or by the indescribable torture of themselves at the false-heartedness of pretended friends brings the whelming wave of sad reflections over the heart, and startles the community into a vivid consciousness of a true position and relations and duties to its several members

We have seen the child of tender years all gaiety and joyousness, to whom the great world was a delicious flower garden with every breath a perfume That delicate girl now occupying her place in the school room,—and now again with a countenance illuminated with intelligence, passing an examination for promotion to a school of a higher grade—and then filled with delight at the evidence she possesses of her progress

Months and years in their fleeting swiftness have passed, and the little laughing girl has become the graceful young lady with a brilliant intellect, fine conversational powers, and a symmetrical form

But what dangers thicken about her path as her yearning and palpitating heart feeds upon the affections of her nature Woman is the God appointed representative of the affections and as such should meet every where the extended hand of help as she travels the precipices of life Instead of this, how often alas, is it, that man, the representative of the intellect, and judgment, and who should be governed by reason, debases the high powers of his nature, not to save but to ensnare and ruin woman, heaven's last best gift Nor content with this alone but brings to his infernal purpose the attractions of a title, the good name of wealthy and respected relatives—the influence of widely known and honored associations and acquaintance—the glitter of a bright military button and the services of professional friends And with all these appliances in use, and exciting confidence by the honied words of love, gaining admittance to the holy citadel of woman's heart there to rivet in the insanity of lust, under the pretended sanction of secret wedlock, and then coldly and basely turning away in utter and cruel abandonment of her who had yielded all all, in hoping, trusting confidence, and who thus left in icy abandonment, lies down and dies of a bruised and broken heart

When these things happen in an enlightened and moral community, the people must be dead not to ponder upon it, and visit with their severest condemnation the guilty parties in the fair-hunting them out, no matter how screened behind respectable connexions, or wealth, or fashion, or station, and let the damning brand of public scorn be fastened upon them for life There is a duty we owe to the living, if the dead can receive benefit, thus to cause a strong rebuke to be dealt out without stint upon those who can thus trifle with the most sacred human interests and obligations Especially is this the case, when the sharp and forked tongue slander is busy, by sharp sighted and inferential invention and activity, in attempting a justification of a heaven defying wrong, by defaming the injured and crushed

☞ The Augusta Age states that the course of certain people who have supposed that Hon Hannibal Hamlin, by becoming a member of the legislature would avenge the wrongs inflicted upon him by a portion of his political associates It declares, however, that Mr Hamlin has no wrongs to avenge and that the only conflict he has is with the enemies of his country and of his party

We doubt somewhat the authority of the Age for his manifesto, and yet our opinion has been, knowing Mr Hamlin as well as we do, that he would use his position to his own advantage If he could make a better bargain, personal to himself by yielding with all becoming docility to party leaders than otherwise that he would close in at once and do so The remarks of the Age does not remove a hair's breadth the just causes of complaint which Mr Hamlin has against the managers of his party, but only shows the use he intends to make of the matter The pay, we think should be large to secure the allegiance of Mr H to the dictation of party leaders who have left no stone unturned to defeat him in his political aspirations

☞ We learn from the Augusta Age, that Major N Weston, Jr, Paymaster U S Army, while on his way to Gen Wool's encampment, from Saltillo, March 26th, was thrown from his horse, had his shoulder dislocated and the shoulder bone broken, he was immediately carried to the quarters of the Surgeon, which fortunately were but two or three hundred yards from the place of the accident, and received every attention that his case required At the last advices he was doing well

Illustrated Life of Gen Winfield Scott.

Col Bugbee has laid upon our table a well printed, fully illustrated, and cheap copy of the life of Gen Scott It is a work of much interest and will be read at the present time with much pleasure It is good reading for the million The price of the work is but twenty five cents

☞ The Magnetic Telegraph now appears to be continuous from Boston to Fredericksburg, Virginia, and telegraphic news from the south is now obtained days in advance of the mails It is attended New Orleans next season and is extended to Vicksburg at that place and be ready to receive and forward orders received at New Orleans and other points reaching p

☞ The New Orleans Picayune of the 31 ult, states that Brevet Major Worth, ordered to the War Department, has been put into service the Texan and Illinois regiments of Cavalry, the Louisiana, and three companies of Infantry and one of Cavalry from Alabama So soon as Gen Butler shall have a sufficient force of Alabama volunteers in the field enough to muster in the troops required from that State

☞ The New York Express states that news has been received in Burlington Ky, by some of the Kentucky volunteers, of the arrival at Saltillo of Majors Graham and Bland and Capt C M Clay, together with the troops captured with them

The exchange of Mexican prisoners for them our readers will recollect, was effected after the battle of Buena Vista We had expected him shortly at home Cassius M Clay was a volunteer in the war, as I Major Bland we regret to hear died of disease shortly after his return to his command

☞ The Philadelphia North American remarks that as Congress at Polk saw fit in the exercise of that undoubted magnanimity, which is a characteristic of our country, to restore his head to the Mexican nation in the person of Santa Anna, it becomes a question of serious consideration whether the President should not immediately send despatches to Gen Scott ordering him to restore his wooden leg to Santa Anna Mexico was a lame affair without its Dictator and the Dictator must be halt enough without his leg though he exhibited no symptoms of halt in his retreat from Cerro Gordo

Mr Leon, the accomplished teacher of the French language, who has made this city his residence for some time, has concluded to establish a permanent French Academy in this city as may be seen by referring to his advertisement in our columns He needs now to secure only twenty more pupils in order to set his academy in operation He is thoroughly qualified for his work and a permanent academy will be a highly creditable institution to our city

☞ The editor of the Skowhegan Clarion thinks it very strange that any Whig should object to Gen Taylor as a candidate for the Presidency Well there is nothing very objectionable in the brave, modest and discreet old General Some of the Locofoco papers however, fearing his influence are trying to cry him down They know he is a Whig and an honest man who will never engage in political gambling and therefore there will be no chance for them

☞ The Skowhegan People's Press states that a committee of that town and vicinity are to make an exploration of a route for a railroad from Skowhegan to Augusta, and that a regular survey will soon be commenced, when, if the route be found favorable, a charter will be obtained and the road placed under contract in eighteen months

☞ The Providence Journal is extolling an improved fish hook It seems that some Yankee has invented a hook without a hook for a hook that has a concealed hook attached to it, and so contrived that at the least nibble of the bait, it pounces upon the fish and secures him

☞ Some of the foreign Journals state that Schonbein, the same man who invented gun cotton, has found out a mode of making paper transparent and impermeable to water It is to be used in making bottles, vases, windows, &c

☞ A son of Ensign Fry of Skowhegan aged four years was drowned on Monday last by accidentally falling into an old cellar Another boy, four years old, son of Col Howard Baker of Solon was killed on the 4th inst by the wheel of a loaded cart passing over him

☞ We desire to call the attention of all our lady readers to the advertisement of Henry M. Kent which may be found in our columns He has rare and beautiful goods, and will be happy to wait upon the whole town

☞ The week now drawing to a close, has been of much interest in New York on account of the anniversaries of the various religious and benevolent associations of the Union The city papers report liberally the proceedings

☞ The President recently illuminated the White House in honor of the recent victories in Mexico

☞ The Roman Catholics are about to erect at Albany, New York, the largest and richest Cathedral in the whole country

☞ The fare from Bath to Boston in the Charter Oak is now reduced to one dollar.

☞ Resolutions of thanks to Gen Scott have been introduced in the Schenectady Senate

Santa Anna's leg—It is evident that Gen Scott means to have a brush for the Presidency, as he has taken the stump

☞ The Skowhegan Press states that the snow is four feet deep on a level at Dead River

Old enough for School.

One of the most pernicious customs in society is that of sending children to school at too early an age We hardly enter a school room without finding an overwhelming evidence that there is a great want of intelligence or humanity in parents To get rid of trouble at home they are willing to inflict it upon the teachers at school to gratify their most contemptible vanity they are willing to sacrifice the health and life of the child, and while this torturing process is going on at school, the parent is sure to make novels its there What though its feeble frame, less elastic step—its paler growing cheek and pensive look send forth the keen rebuke, and plead for exercise and pure air these appeals have no power to rouse the fashionable fretfully made and ill-ventilated rooms to the children exposed to the contagion of infectious diseases are given as a flattering reward for sacrificing the child at the shrine of its parents vanity and its nervous system made to prop up the sinking constitution while the system of nature is carried on—a system which sends its victims to an early grave, or leaves them to exert its vital energies if perchance it may whisper to the child they shall have ended

Nature wisely dictates, if parents will only heed her monitions, that the child must have exercise, pure air and ample opportunity to enjoy the flow of spirits which characterize that period of life It needless all vital energy for the healthy growth of the system It should not there once be diverted from its great work to offer for the purpose of affording a gratification to the vanity of the parent

It is cruel to compel the tender child to contend with a disease which should have ended in the grave, labor and money, that have been so liberally expended there.—Maine Farmer

A Christian Spirit

To possess and exhibit the spirit of Christ we must feel and act as Christ did when on earth His predominant and predominant characteristic was this love had lost for the world. All know it is. Therefore, it is per am that we manifest possess this spirit, than we like him, love the world and labor for its good

If we cannot act as he acted in the multitude of particulars, still the general principle is the same both in him and in us, provided we are governed by his spirit, and no person can have a christian spirit who does not, like the Savior, labor to do good in the sphere in which he is placed

The Christian spirit loves others, loves enemies even, it certainly loves its friends It pities the stressed it mourns over the sins and follies of the world and is always ready to act in any way that promises benefit to his race The Christian spirit feels, loves, acts, makes sacrifice for the good of others, and persevers, though smoothing insinuations and honeyed words do attempt to draw, or vile slanders and harsh reproach can upbraid we than from the noble work of doing good to men and glorifying God

Little different is such a spirit from that which idolizes self, worships golden goods, and lets all but self look where they please for help!—Christ. Herald

Soul Growth.

Look into life and watch the growth of the soul Men are not what they seem to the outward eye mere machines moving about in customary occupations — productive laborers of food and wearing apparel—slaves from morn to night, task work at their toil by the wealth of nations They are the children of God, The soul never sleeps, not even when its wearied body lies in seeming forgetfulness All the soul now in the world are forever awake, and the life, believe us though in moral sadness it has often been called so, is no dream In a day or two will of our own, do power over ourselves to arrest or limit the seeds sown by angels from a far off country, he dead alive? yet we wonder it, the laws of the physical world are suspended or changed, or confused by our phantasy, intellect, imagination, the moral sense affection, are not possessed by us in the same way we possess the most of that mystery were it a dream or like a dream, it would never last to heaven

Speak of Ill

BY CHARLES SWAIN

Nay speak no ill—a kindly word
Can never leave a sting behind,
And oft a breath each talk we've heard
In far bosoms has lodged
Full oft a seeming seed is sown
By choosing thus a kinder plan
For if but little good be known,
Still let us speak the best we can

Give me the heart that fain would hide
Would in another's fault efface,
Have can it pleasure human pride
To prove humanity but base?
No let us reach a higher mood,
A nobler estimate of man
Be earnest in the search for good,
And speak of all the best we can

Then speak no ill—but leniently
To others failings as your own,
If you are the first a fault to see,
Be not the first to make it known,
For life is but a passing day,
No lip may tell how brief its span
Then, oh! the little time we stay,
Let's speak of all the best we can

Loss of the Packet Ship Anglo Saxon

The ship belonging to Fox Training Boston and Liverpool line left Boston Wednesday noon May 5 and was lost on Saturday night May 8th, on Duck Island about 15 miles from Cape Sables Crew and passengers, ninety in all, saved, her cargo, Corn and Flour The weather was thick and foggy

Two of the passengers arrived here last evening and proceeded by express to Boston

No Prospect of Peace.

The New Orleans Delta states that there is no reason to believe that the victory of Cerro Gordo will bring us any nearer to a peace than we were before The war is not unpopular with the mass of the Mexicans They have suffered none of its horrors Besides the controlling spirits of the country, they keep up the war spirit, knowing that if the country is occupied by the United States, they will lose their offices and their influence It is believed by Gen Scott and the officers with him that it will be necessary to occupy the whole country

This, he thinks, can be done With 20,000 men he will march to the capital, take possession of the Government, disarm the people, establish a Provisional Government under the authority of the U States, and defray its expenses from the customs and mines, the chief source of revenue in Mexico Without this force Gen Scott will not be able to move with safety to his communications beyond Jalapa

He will have to occupy the Orizaba road, to prevent the enemy operating against his rear from that position Having arrived in the Terra Templada and encamped in a perfectly healthy position, he will, no doubt, wait for reinforcements before he pushes farther at least, than Perote, the next point of attack

The Mexicans are now forming a National Guard of all Mexicans capable of bearing arms

A Dialogue

Good morning, A, how are you?

A Not very well This spring weather affects me

B The spring weather affects everybody more or less Why dont you take a dose or two of Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills?

A I don't believe in them I don't believe one medicine can cure every thing

B I don't believe one medicine can cure every thing, either, in the way you look at it But you believe it is possible to prepare a medicine in such a way as to be applicable to the human system in all cases?

A Why, yes. I believe in the possibility of anything, now a days

B Well, that is all I want you to admit Call in to-morrow, and I will give you a dose of Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills to try on, and if you don't pronounce the medicine the best you ever took, then I will be satisfied to abide by your opinion next time as it deserves

A Thank you friend B I will try anything on your recommendation [Exit, severally

Beware of Counterfeits of all kinds! Some are coated with sugar, others are made to resemble in outward appearance the original medicine The safest course is, to purchase from the regular agents only, one of whom may be found in every village and town in the State
